PREPARE FOR BIG RUSH

Postoffice Force Expects to Make Quick Disposition of Accumulation

Appleton people heard a joyful sound about 7 o'clock Friday evening when shrill blasts from the siren of a locomotive announced that the work train and wrecker had broken through as far as Appleton Junction. Four hours later the first mail and passenger train since the storm steamed in to the junction depot. After a storm blockade of exactly 48 hours duration, human strength and ingenuity had prevailed.

On the first train there arrived from points south 15 pouches of first class mail and 30 pouches of newspapers and parcels. This comprised one day's mail. The letters carried the postmark of Thursday. No Chicago nor Milwaukee newspapers were in the lot but there were newspapers from Fond du Lac, Oshkosh and Madison.

STOPS AT JUNCTION

When it was announced at Milwaukee Friday noon that a train was being made up for Appleton, Victor Letter, railway mail clerk, son of John B. Letter superintendent of mails at the Appleton postoffice, determined to be on the first mail car to arrive here after the storm. When the train got to Neenah it was announced that it would go no further so Letter left the mail car and walked to Appleton. When he got here he found his train had pulled into the junction. He roused his father and they went to the junction with the delivery auto to get the Appleton mail. The train did not attempt to go any further than the junction and the plan was to have it return to Milwaukee and Chicago Saturday forenoon.

PREPARE FOR RUSH

Appleton postoffice Saturday was preparing to handle a rush of delayed mail which was expected to arrive on incoming trains Saturday night and Sunday. Postal officials said there would be no delay in deliveries as clerks would work overtime if necessary just as in a holiday rush.

The bulk of the outgoing mail which had accumulated during the storm period left here for the south on the train which left at 10:27 Saturday forenoon. Daily receipts of outgoing mail at the postoffice since Wednesday have been far below normal.

Business places received no mail and consequently had no mail to answer. All parcel post shipments which had been held by the shipper until service is restored so that only a small amount had accumulated in the postoffice.

Bottensek, 72,

Walks 15 Miles

To Reach Home

The weight of 72 years on his shoulders did not prevent County Judge John Bottensek from walking 15 miles from Oshkosh to Neenah Friday after being marooned in Milwaukee by the storm. In his 13-mile cross country hike, the judge was accompanied by G. J. Zeigler of the Lutheran Aid Association.

Both men were in Milwaukee when the storm struck. They left the metropolis Wednesday afternoon and got as far as Fond du Lac on the Chicago and Northwestern. The train would go no further so they were compelled to remain there two nights. Then they hired an auto to take them from Fond du Lac to Oshkosh. Their plan was to come on to Neenah over Lake Winnebago but when they ran on the ice at Oshkosh their machine broke through to the axles and they could not venture any further.

There was nothing left but, leg power so they decided to use that. Their hike from Oshkosh to Neenah required five hours. They finished their journey to Appleton by bus.

SOUTH EDGE OF
SLEET STORM

Milwaukee Ignorant of Conditions
in Fox River Valley,
Travelers Say

First definite information of the extent of the storm which paralyzed Appleton for three days was obtained Saturday morning when a dozen or more Appleton men arrived from Milwaukee where they were held since Wednesday because no trains were running north of Fond du Lac. These men reached Appleton Friday afternoon and evening, some on the Northwestern line and others on the Soo train to Neenah. They had made innumerable trips from the hotels in Milwaukee to the depots in an effort to obtain transportation.

Milwaukee was practically untouched by the storm, it was said. Milwaukee people had no idea of what was transpiring in the Fox river valley and Appleton people in the state metropolis could not send messages to Appleton to relieve the anxiety of their relatives.

There was little evidence of storm until the trains were within ten miles of Fond du Lac. There the travelers found the trees heavily coated with sleet but the real damage was not apparent until they were north of Fond du Lac and saw hundreds of telephone and telegraph poles broken down.

The storm spread beyond the Mississippi river to the west, it is reported. There are no wires between Madison and Minneapolis. It swept as far as central Michigan to the east and in some parts of the Wolverine state it was more severe than in Appleton.

Green Bay was completely cut off from the south but was able to maintain communication with the north. The damage by sleet and storm was not nearly as serious in Green Bay as here.

Not a word has been received from Manitowish since Tuesday night and it is believed the Lake shore city is completely isolated. Sheboygan also was severely affected for only few hours. One or two wires were in operation most of the time.

A radio message from Frankfort, Mich., stated that city was entirely cut off from the world and it was doubtful if trains would be running until Sunday evening. All telephone and telegraph wires in that neighborhood were down.

Railroad Company Expects to Carry Appleton Mail to Chicago
12 Hours Earlier Than
Under Present Arrangement

Intimation that additional mail service to Chicago will be given Appleton March 1 when train No. 126 running from Green Bay will be prepared to carry mail, has been received by Postmaster Gustave Keller.

Eugene H. H. Appleton following the lead of local postal officials urged the department to take steps to secure this additional service for Appleton about a month ago and the chief railway mail clerk at Chicago has been considering the matter since then. Train 126 is a milk train. It was at first proposed to attach a baggage car to this train and allow mail space for closed pouches from the various postoffices along the route.

There is a probability now, however, that instead of baggage car a regular mail car will be provided. This will mean far better service than was at first expected or requested. The train leaves Appleton about 10 o'clock p. m. and is due in Chicago at 8:30 in the morning. This means 12-hour mail service between the two cities. Letters mailed here in the evening will be delivered to Chicago addresses in the first morning delivery. At the same time the new service will hasten the delivery of mail to points for which connections are made at Chicago. Mail traveling long distances may thus arrive at its destination 12 or even 24 hours earlier than is now possible.

Train Leaving
Depot Proved
Unusual Sight

Have you heard the old settlers tell of the days when the first railroad train pulled into Appleton and people flocked to the depot to see it arrive.

This scene almost was duplicated when a Chicago and Northwestern passenger train, the first out of Appleton, backed into the station from the junction Saturday morning. People stood about the platform and on the streets eyeing the engine and coaches and watching the travelers rush for tickets, eager to enjoy freedom after being stormbound for days.

No train had been seen since Wednesday afternoon; in fact not even the rails could be seen and it was with a feeling that the departure was a notable event that the people gazed until the coach was lost to sight.

EUROPE WAITS
U. S. ACTION ON DEBT PAYMENT

Vicious Circle is Developing In World Financial Situation

THREE WAYS TO PAY DEBT

Britain, France and Italy All Sit Back and Wait For United States

By David Lawrence
Copyright, 1922 by Post Pub. Co.
Washington.—World finance is threatening to develop a "vicious circle" involving not merely the payment of American liberty bonds but the height of the tariff wall being constructed by the American congress.

France says through former Minister Loucheur that she will not be able to pay America the debt because of the high customs duties imposed against her.

Italy through Ambassador Ricci, who is a famous economist as well as a diplomat, says the tariff wall will prevent Italy from paying what she owes the United States.

Great Britain says she will not cancel any of the debt owed her by France unless the United States cancels an equivalent amount of British debt.

France says she cannot pay Great Britain until money is forthcoming from the German indemnity.

COMMISSION TO ACT
America has just appointed a funding commission and has yet to speak her policy. But certain fundamentals can be taken for granted. One is that the new commission composed of Secretary Hughes, Secretary Hoover, Secretary Mellon, Senator Smoot, Utah and Representative Burton of Ohio will not cancel any of the European debt. No such power is vested in the commission. The most that can be done for Europe is to spread the payment of interest and principal over a period of years and in so doing Congress has imposed a limit of 25 years. This may have to be extended but that's a subject for bargaining across the table.

There are of course three ways by which Europe can pay her debts to America—in gold, in goods and in services such as freight carrying. Gold can be transferred only if America buys of Europe. Should the American people indulge in the purchase of securities of foreign enterprises, this would tend to help the situation but Americans have been slow in the past to invest heavily in European businesses.

CONSIDER TARIFF
The export of goods which would be payment for debts to America would help Europe but the tariff laws under consideration in congress will tend to reduce the amount that Europe can sell here. If it ever comes to a question of permitting foreign manufactures to flood American markets, and hurt American industries, the tendency would be to forego payment of foreign debt and keep American industries going.

But there is a mean between two extremes—a line below which American cannot go and yet give ample protection to American industries or above which it is still possible for Europe to find a market for her commodities in the United States. It's the difference between a prohibitive tariff and a competitive tariff. It's a hard line to find but economists never have easy tasks anyway.

In answer to the French and Italian pessimism, the tendency in official circles is to tell Europe not to be so disconsolate about its own future and to point out what remarkable progress has already been made in reconstruction. The recovery of Europe is in many respects greater than was anticipated. In such circumstances instead of imagining that 23 years hence Europe will be bankrupt the American debt commission will proceed on the theory that Europe is strong enough and resourceful enough to pay her debts if she is given time—and that no doubt will be granted.

HUGE PHONE CREW ARRIVES

City Breathes Huge Sigh of Relief as Peril of Long Isolation is Removed by Efforts of
All Public Service Companies

There was rejoicing in Appleton Friday afternoon when the smoke of a locomotive was seen toward Appleton Junction for the first time in 48 hours. It meant the restoration of contact with the outside world after the city had been cut off because of the storm for the longest period in its history.

Saturday trains began regular operation between Appleton, Milwaukee and Chicago, and it was expected by night the wreck at Little Chute would be cleared away and service over the Chicago and Northwestern reestablished to Green Bay.

The Soo line was the first to announce resumption of service. Trains on its main line through Neenah began operating Friday afternoon, and many traveling men flocked to Neenah aboard automobile busses to proceed with their journeys.

FIRST TRAIN ON FRIDAY
The first train to reach Appleton since the time following arrival of the work train which dug out the road was one of the Chicago & North western road from the south at 9 o'clock Friday evening. Many Appleton people who had been in Milwaukee, Chicago and other cities for two or three days awaiting a chance to return home were aboard and were surprised beyond measure to find conditions as serious as they were.

Telegraph lines were still silent Saturday morning, but the Wisconsin Telephone company made good on its promise to have service to Green Bay by night. A wire was in operation to that point by 10 o'clock and Neenah and Menasha were served since Friday morning.

CAR SERVICE RESTORED
Street car service has been almost entirely restored. Cars were running into Kaukauna Friday night and will go into Neenah by tonight or early Sunday morning. The traction company's crew was way into Menasha at noon and probably would have completed its work if the trolley wires had not broken down during the night.

Electric light and power service has been restored to Hortonville, near London, Seymour and Black Creek and probably will be available in Kaukauna and Hilbert by tonight.

A large crew of men is working on the main and the secondary circuits in Appleton but it may be several days before all homes will again be lighted by electricity. Broken trees hanging over the wires is adding to the difficulty. Every manufacturing plant in Appleton depending on electric power is operating, it was reported from the traction company's office.

Conditions were improving so rapidly Saturday that it seemed only a question of another 24 hours when the difficulties occasioned by the storm and ice would become largely a memory.

Trains probably will not be operating over the branches of the Soo line and Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul through Appleton until Monday. These railroads entered their first efforts on opening the main trunk lines, leaving local crews to dig their way out temporarily as best they could. Agents George Sweetman of the Soo and A. W. Liese of the Milwaukee road mustered large crews of men and were digging out the buried rails with picks and shovels as rapidly as possible.

TELEGRAMS BY MAIL
Western Union telegrams which had accumulated in the Milwaukee office for Appleton were sent here by mail on the train arriving Friday evening and were delivered Saturday by messengers. Messages were accepted here for mail to Milwaukee where they are wired to their destinations.

Restoration of telephone service was given a distinct incentive when 100 of the Wisconsin Telephone company's best linemen and two general foremen who had been trying to get through from Chicago and Milwaukee since Wednesday arrived on Friday evening's train, accompanied by a carload of tools. Fifty men from Milwaukee also are working at Neenah and Menasha.

Two conditions handicapped the crews from accomplishing all they might otherwise do—lack of materials and the ice. J. T. Quinlan, district manager said. A carload of wire and equipment was due to arrive sometime Saturday, followed by others until the work could proceed swiftly.

BLAINE HAS TRUMP CARD IN BADGER HOSPITAL PROJECT

Morgan's Opinion Provides Way to Pay for Plumbing, Heating and Lighting

Madison—The last obstacle against the letting of contracts for the big $1,250,000 state general hospital provided for by the 1920 legislature was cleared away Friday by an interpretation of the bill that authorized the hospital, made by Attorney General William J. Morgan to Elmer S. Hall, secretary of state and auditor of the hospital project.

Hall was authorized by Morgan to place the heating, lighting, and plumbing construction of the project under the $350,000 "furnishing" item of the appropriation.

Only the positive refusal of Governor John J. Blaine to authorize the expenditure at this time can now stop the construction of the big state hospital which will enable the university to offer its students a complete four-year medical course in theory and practice. Blaine has been considering the question with state officials in conferences for several weeks.

LANGUAGE NOT CLEAR

The language of the bill, which appropriated $750,000 for construction of the hospital, $150,000 for the construction of a nurse home, and $350,000 for the equipment of both buildings, is indeterminate in regard to which fund the plumbing, heating, and lighting shall be paid from.

The state at present has very acceptable contracts submitted for the building. The "sand in the axle-grease" however, is the fact that if these contracts are accepted, there will be no money left in the building appropriation to pay for the lighting, plumbing and heating.

The $450,000 "furnishings" appropriation is about four times as large as is needed to purchase the "movable furnishings" for the buildings. Secretary Hall told Morgan. On this ground, Morgan told him that the items in question "which could be removed from the building without structural injury" can be paid for out of the $450,000 appropriation, especially inasmuch as the language of the bill making the appropriation provides that "money saved on one item of this construction can be applied to any other item."

Governor Blaine is silent as to whether he contemplates action toward halting the immediate construction of the building.

SMALL TRIAL TO BE FIRST OF ITS KIND

Powerful Legal Batteries Will Stage Battle to Vindicate Illinois Executive

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Waukegan, Ill. — Governor Len Small of Illinois will face a jury in criminal court here March 6 to answer charges of having conspired to defraud this state of $2,000,000.

The trial will go down in American history as an unprecedented event.

For Small is the first governor in any state to stand trial by civil court during tenure of office.

He is likewise one of the few officials elected to high place to seek acquittal for alleged crimes at the hands of the people over whom he rules.

The trial promises to be one of the "biggest legal battles that ever has taken place in an American court."

Batteries of legal talent will be employed by both sides.

Cost of the trial will exceed $500,000, according to estimates.

500 WITNESSES

More than 500 witnesses will be summoned.

Judge Clair G. Edwards will act as trial judge.

Co-defendants of Small are Lieutenant Governor Fred E. Sterling and Vernon S. Curtis. Sterling will not be concerned in the trial here, having elected to be tried at Springfield, the state capital.

At the trial the state will seek to prove that Small, as state treasurer, and Sterling, who succeeded him as state treasurer, with the aid of the late Edward C. Curtis and his brother, Vernon C. Curtis, both bankers, appropriated vast sums of state funds.

The bill of particulars charges:

THAT the defendants falsely pretended to the state that the place of deposit for state funds was a bank when it was not a bank.

THAT certificates of deposit issued for state funds by the Grant Park Bank, operated by the Curtis brothers, were "fraudulent."

THAT defendants pretended to receive about 2 per cent for the use of the state funds, whereas the interest actually paid them ranged from 5 per cent to 8 1/2 per cent.

THAT Governor Small and Lieutenant Governor Sterling maintained two sets of books, one of a "vault fund" deposited in bona fide banks and the other of a "safe fund" deposited in the Grant Park Bank, an institution which had ceased to exist.

THAT the funds loaned to the Grant Park Bank were in turn loaned to Chicago packing houses and that interest and profits from such loans over 2 per cent paid to the state, were kept by the defendants.

Small now is at liberty under $150,000 bonds.

BAR ENCORES AT WOMANS CLUB PLAY

No encores will be allowed in the musical revue, "Town Topics," which will be put on at Appleton theatre on Monday and Tuesday evenings for the benefit of Appleton Women's club. The revue contains 12 scenes which are speeded through a period of 2 hours beginning promptly at 8:20.

Blanche Hayes and Ruth Frenks of Oshkosh will put on the harlequinade number in which W. Frederic Markatt appears as Pierrot. The Oshkosh young ladies appeared in this number when "Town Topics" was produced at Oshkosh recently and have received much favorable comment.

Although the seat sale for the opening night has been good, there are still choice seats available. Reservations may be made for either the opening night or the second night.

COUNTY PREPARES TO ENFORCE STATE TRUCK WEIGHT LAW

Weight Classification of Highways Will Be Announced on Signboards

Preparations to enforce the new state law regulating the weight of truck traffic permissible on classified state highways, are now being made by A. G. Brusewitz, county highway commissioner, who will be ready to see that the law becomes effective immediately upon the opening of traffic in the spring.

Actual enforcement of the law, of course, will be left to Sheriff P. G. Schwartz but patrolmen and all employees of the county highway department will be on the lookout for violations and will report them to the authorities.

The new law divides the highways into two classes. Class A highways, which include practically all of highways in this county except such portions of the highways according to the limits of cities, may be used for traffic not to exceed 12 tons in the weight of any one load. Loads transported on class B highways must not exceed seven tons in weight. Some time ago Mr. Brusewitz divided the county's highways according to this classification and announced the stretches included in each.

ISSUE NEW MAP
A complete state map showing the road included in the two classifications will be issued by the state highway department, before traffic opens this spring. In this way truck drivers may know where they may or may not drive with a given load. It is also likely that as soon as possible signs will be placed along each highway indicating its classification.

All trucks are required to have a lettered sign on either side showing the weight without load and the actual load capacity. Sheriffs, police officers or deputies have the authority under the law to halt any driver and have him weigh his load at the nearest scale.

Under state law the county board has the authority to suspend traffic for a definite period on any state or county road by posting signs or by publication of notice. However, the new law does not interfere with the power of the county board to regulate traffic exceeding 7,000 pounds in weight for any load and each county may make any regulations deemed necessary irrespective of the highway classification law.

In addition to requiring trucks to be equipped with signs indicating capacity, the law also requires the vehicle to be equipped with mirrors so that the driver at all times may see traffic behind and at the side of him. The penalty for violation of this law is from $1 to $100 and each day's offense is a separate violation. Both truck drivers and owners may be held liable for damages to highways, the law states.

HANDBOOK OF VALUE TO VETERANS OF WAR

Revised handbooks of information and instruction for home service workers have arrived at the Appleton Red Cross center and are being distributed throughout the county. The books contain valuable information for former service men with claims against the government.

A handbook is on file in the local Red Cross center for Appleton men. It contains chapters that explain Red Cross policies and procedure, the compensation law, medical treatment of disabled men, vocational training of disabled veterans, insurance under the war risk insurance act, allowances, organizations rendering service to former service men provisions for the benefit of discharged members of the Canadian Imperial forces and additional information beneficial to former service men.

The handbook has chapters that give information on the United States army and navy and Red Cross service in foreign countries and insular possessions.

How Stranded Strangers Passed Away Time

Seated in a rocking chair with his size ten shoes darkening a window toward the street, a salesman was seen complacently reading a Milwaukee paper three days old.

Three men from Milwaukee, possessed with an exceptionally good line of wit in addition to a good line of samples, found that time passed quickly in an office where the boss was out and the girls took good naturally to a lot of "kidding."

"M-o-n-i-n-g p-a-p-e-r-s!"
In a typical "newsie" voice these words sounded through the crowded lobby of a hotel Friday morning, where salesmen were chatting incessantly about their predicament. Talking stopped and all turned their heads in the direction of the voice. One of the humorists in the crowd was laughing merrily at the effect of his little joke.

"False alarm," someone piped.

Marshaling all the women in the place, traveling men in a hotel secured permission to clear the floor of two dining rooms, hired an orchestra and had a dance. Dull care slipped out in the darkness of the city as the knights of the road stepped lightly with the ladies. What a difference the presence of the fair sex can make.

An Oconto high school team on its way to a tournament at Ripon college had money enough advanced to pay its expenses if things went on schedule. The team came to Appleton with the remainder of the Little Chute wreck victims. Its money gave out so a game was staged at Little Chute Friday afternoon. Earnings not announced.

THE STAGE

Vaudeville Program

The management of the Appleton Theatre announce as headliner of the six act vaudeville program which will be offered Sunday matinee and evening Delmar's Lions. These denizens of the jungle are put thru their paces in an interesting stage exhibition. Other acts will include Billy K. Alca, delineator of Hawaiian music, specializing on the steel guitar; Arthur and Peggy make known a combined singing and wire walking novelty that is unusual. Paradise and Dix present a combination of singing, piano playing and character changes. Bozo, Fox and Gibson offer a comedy oddity "Bluff" and a minstrel first part will be the contribution of the Five Dancing Serenaders, augmented by special scenery.

There will be three performances, the matinee starting at 2:30 and the evening performances at 7:30 and 9:30. Seats may be reserved for the first evening performance.

TELL FIRE CHIEF OF FIREWORKS LAW

Explosives Must Be Stored in Safe Place at Least 200 Feet From Buildings

Copies of a rule of the state industrial commission requiring the isolation of fireworks from mercantile or wholesale establishments have been received by Chief George P. McGillan and are being distributed among local merchants.

The law is that no fire crackers, rockets, torpedoes, Roman candles, bombs, or other fireworks, and no pistols, cannons, explosive canes, blank cartridges, or other similar appliances or displays shall be stored in a place nearer than 200 feet from a building, except wholesale storage in original packages.

At a hearing before the commission it was held that this regulation would not apply to electric sparklers or to red fire, providing this variety of fireworks were kept in reasonably safe places. The law provides for the forfeiture of from $10 to $100 a day for violation of the order.

The law presumes that wholesalers will not sell fireworks to retail dealers not prepared to handle them legally and retail merchants should not buy them unless their places of business are isolated at least 200 feet from any other building.

Dealers are asked to cooperate with the local fire department and the state industrial commission in eliminating the danger from this and other fire hazards.

CAN'T GET FRESH VEGETABLES FOR DINNER ON SUNDAY

Grocers Dispose of Vegetable Stock Few Hours After Train Service Fails

One of the immediate results of the storm is that many Appleton people may have to go without fresh vegetables for their Sunday dinner.

No vegetables have been received since the first of the week and as the demand at this season of the year is at its peak, wholesalers and grocers were unable to stock up.

Vegetables handled at this time of year by local grocers include leaf lettuce, radishes, onions, cucumbers, cabbage, spinach, green peppers, rhubarb, cauliflower, beets, parsley, Hubbard squash, celery, celery cabbage, eggplant, sweet potatoes and cranberries.

Grocers who carry this line do a large percentage of their business in vegetables. The delay in the arrival of fresh supplies not only inconveniences their customers but means something of a loss to the grocers themselves.

THE WELL RAN DRY

Most of us are familiar with the adage which reads that "we never miss the water until the well runs dry" but we never realize the truth of the one line sermon until a catastrophe like the terrific sleet and rain storm out of which Appleton now is digging its way is upon us. We are so accustomed to trains at regular intervals, mails every few hours, telephone connections whenever we want them and telegraph communication whenever that is desirable that we never really appreciate how utterly dependent we are on these means of transportation and communication.

One day without communication is more or less of a joke with most of us; the second day of isolation, becomes wearisome; the third day we become anxious about what is going on around us and if this tieup would have continued for another day it would have approached a calamity for all of us.

Fortunately the breakdown of the transportation and communication systems did not continue long enough to approximate disaster for Appleton people. A survey of food stocks indicates there is sufficient to eat in Appleton for several weeks at the very least so there is little or no hardship from that angle.

Inability to communicate with the outside world, however, has a much more serious aspect. The 400 or more traveling salesmen marooned in Appleton hotels for two days were much more concerned over their inability to tell their wives and employers where they were than they were in the possibility of an enforced vacation from their jobs. Most of them would be quite content to loaf around for several days if they could relieve their relatives and friends of worry.

A half century or more ago when news of activities outside one's immediate circle was meagre and uncertain, failure to receive immediate reports of world happenings meant nothing but in this day of almost instant knowledge of what occurs everywhere even a breakdown of a day in wire service is attended with misgivings and anxiety. The wireless reports in the Post-Crescent, meagre as they are, were read with as much interest and attentiveness as if they were column stories of great events in normal times. Telegraph and telephone wires have made everyone a neighbor of everyone else and a breakdown of these systems for even a day is like moving to a remote corner of the world.

The storm put a million miles between Chicago and Appleton so far as communication is concerned. On Tuesday Chicago was only five minutes away and on Wednesday it was on the other side of the world. We in Appleton were little better off on Thursday and Friday, in the matter of communication, than our forefathers were 100 years ago.

The breakdown of communication and transportation also showed how futile are the works of man against the forces of nature. That which men had worked for months and years to build was destroyed by nature in one single night.

Too much credit, however, cannot be given to those men who are working day and night to restore to Appleton some semblance of the conveniences it has enjoyed. Facing almost insurmountable difficulties these men went into their task with determination and before the city had recovered from the shock of its loss or began to feel its inconveniences seriously the engines were puffing into the depots and messages were hustling over the wires.

In a short time only the debris of the storm will be left to remind Appleton of its three day isolation from the world.

AUTOMOBILE FATALITIES

The number of persons killed in this country in automobile accidents in 1921 will, it is believed, be close to fifteen thousand. This is only a part of the havoc done by reckless use of machines. Many people suffer serious injuries, and some are crippled for life. The automobile is a wonderful power for good. It has cheapened transportation, it has saved time, it enables people to live in pleasant neighborhoods yet work in crowded sections. Yet when you turn this instrument of speed loose on the highways, you put a terrific power in the hands of all kinds of people.

Under an ideal system of government, the persons who are to operate automobiles would be subject to close examination and inspection. Not merely would their original competence be considered, but their mental habits and driving methods would be subjected to close inquiry. A man who was discovered running his machine at a high rate of speed would be promptly reported, and his license would be taken away from him for an extended period or perhaps permanently.

But the American people are tremendously good natured. Every day almost they see someone who is violating the spirit of the law. But to report that person would involve some bother. They feel it might force them to appear in the matter personally so they weakly and tolerantly overlook the violation and nothing is done.

It is wholly impracticable for many communities to have a sufficient number of traffic officers to watch for all the evasions of the laws. Therefore the laws can not be enforced unless persons are willing to make reports when they observe reckless acts. If they would do that so frequently that speeders and reckless drivers would constantly find themselves in trouble fatalities and injuries would see a speedy decline.

PIPES FOR WOMEN

Many persons who are raising their voices in protest against the use of tobacco by women had grandmothers who smoked. The grandmothers did not smoke to be fashionable or sporty. They used a clay pipe with a reed stem and the tobacco was long green. After it had been cured, by hanging in the barn or the smokehouse, it was ready for use. If there were objections to tobacco smoke in the sitting room, grandmother went to the kitchen, where she lit her pipe with a live coal. She smoked solely because she liked it.

There came a time when women shunned tobacco, but now some stores are showing pipes for women. They come in little velvet lined cases and have push bits so they can be unjoined and packed away in a small space. A dispatch from New York says that women are smoking long slim cigars. Tobacco is tobacco, regardless of the form in which it is used. It may be wrapped in tobacco and called a cigar, or it may have a paper wrapper and be known as a cigarette. It can be smoked in a pipe or chewed, and years ago it was pulverized and popularized in the form of stuff. Perhaps some of the young women who are learning to smoke, not because they like it, but because they think that it is smart, are reverting to the days of their grandmothers.

ANEMIA

Absence of sunlight is one of the most important causes of anemia or weak blood. People shut it out of the home because it fades the rugs or something or because other people do. Window shades and shutters are worn just because they are the fashion and not because they are needed. Sunlight is essential for the production of the coloring matter of the blood (hemoglobin) as it is for the production of the coloring matter of plants (chlorophyll). Those whose occupation keeps them shut in all day, allows them to go home only after sundown, and requires them to be at work before the sun is high enough to give strong light, are pretty sure to be anemic. The general use of denatured bread and cereals is certainly an important factor of anemia. If you remove the iron containing layer of the wheat and of other cereals, you rob the blood of something it must have. Not merely iron, but vitamins, life elements. Pale, insipid, tasteless bread makes anemic, pale, lifeless people. Whole wheat bread, old fashioned oatmeal, unpolished rice, these things not only feed the blood but correct the constipation which is almost a universal ailment of civilized people. Undernourished food prevents and cures pellagra and beriberi. We have not only economic but also the best of hygienic reasons for going back to the undernourished fare of our great great grandfathers.

The excessive use of cathartics helps to cause anemia. Cathartics, usually castor oil, cause blood capillaries to appear in the evacuations; so does calomel. And salts are notorious for weakening the blood. Yet lots of people take salts because they have backache which they mistakenly attribute to kidney trouble—backache which spells anemia.

Internal bleeding hemorrhoids frequently cause anemia. Toxemia (poison in the blood) from insidious diseases like bright's disease, pulmonary tuberculosis, syphilis, malaria, and food infections in the gums, teeth, tonsils or elsewhere, are common factors.

But in women, at least, a most prolific cause of simple anemia—that discouraging sallow complexion and dull heavy eye—is insufficient oxygen. Another way of saying this is excessive carbon dioxide in the blood. Or still a better way is lack of outdoor exercise. A woman may not get out and take a good walk every day if she wishes to preserve her good looks and her health. There is something about open air which we can't exactly describe, probably an actinic, chemical influence—but something indispensable for good health.

For anemia, poor complexion, dull headache, tired feeling, nervous depression, poor appetite and all the familiar symptoms of anemia, no prescription has never been surpassed by any other remedy: Two miles of oxygen on the hoof at least once a day.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Young Ones Should Not Fast
Do you think it is a good idea for a high school girl to go to school without breakfast and remain in school until 1 p. m. without food? I get very hungry and my head aches, but I feel that I am overeating and would like to omit breakfast.—(A. C.)

Answer.—No. In my judgment no boy or girl under 19 years of age should fast or reduce the diet unless by personal direction of his or her own physician.

PASTEURIZING MILK

Would you advise pasteurizing milk for an infant when the milk is believed to be free from any bacteria? I have a baby about 4 months old. I am told that pasteurization impairs the food value or digestibility of milk.—(Mrs. T. C. M.)

Answer.—No. Milk should not be pasteurized if you have the assurance of the health authorities that it is from tuberculin tested herds and handled in a sanitary way from cow to consumer. Even certified milk, the cleanest and purest and safest milk for infants, may contain as many as 10,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter (about 40,000 in each teaspoonful), but harmless bacteria. In my judgment—just an opinion without any scientific facts to cite in support of it—pure raw milk is more digestible and more nutritious and more certain to contain the full vitamin value than the same milk pasteurized. Unless you have the health department's o. k. for the milk you buy, by all means play safely by using only sterilized milk.

RADIUM AND THE TONSILS

Some time ago I read an article about radium treatment for the tonsils instead of having them removed. Please let us have your advice about that.—(Mrs. R. A.)

Answer.—Some physicians have reported gratifying results from both radium and X-ray treatments of infected tonsils in children and adults, the treatments being given at intervals of two or three weeks. Results being required to determine the result. For merely hypertrophied or enlarged tonsils this treatment is not of much value. Whether X-ray or radium treatment should be resorted to instead of removal of infected or diseased tonsils is an undecided question.

CASTOR OIL FOR WARTS

My sister had a wart on her upper lip, to which she applied castor oil, rubbing a little on the wart two or three times a day for two or three weeks, and the wart completely disappeared.—(R. S. L.)

Answer.—Warts often do come and go mysteriously. (Copyright National Newspaper Service.)

Resume of American and Foreign Newspaper Opinion

An American Monument at Verdun
Paris—A writer in LE JOURNAL suggests that it may remain for the United States to erect a monument to the French defense of Verdun. He says:

"We were a few Frenchmen together on the boat. One day one of them, an old soldier of the great war, said 'Is it not extraordinary that there is no monument to commemorate our resistance at Verdun, some imperishable reminder which would be symbolic for generations to come of one of the most splendid pages in our military history?' I was just thinking of this remark of one of our compatriots when I met Mr. Alfred G. Bossom, the well-known New York architect, and curious coincidence that it was, he began talking to me of an American project of constructing a sort of national park on the outskirts of Verdun in which a monument of the allies would be placed."

"Mr. A. G. Bossom, who has built innumerable skyscrapers in the United States, said:

"The immortal words 'On ne passe pas' remain engraved in the memory of Americans as one of the most beautiful sayings of the war. In years to come when little Yankees are taught history at school they will be told of the heroic and superhuman defense of the French at Verdun."

"This celebrated town must be immortalized in the whole world. For this purpose, I have drawn up a plan for erecting a central monument on the outskirts of the town. All round there will be a pavilion for each nation who will arrange the interior as it likes. The units which fought at Verdun or on the French front will be written on the tablets and the descendants of these glorious ancestors will find there a place of pilgrimage destined to tighten the bonds of friendship between the allies of 1914-18."

"Those who have initiated the plan in America are forming a committee which will include the greatest names of this country and which will have the official support of President Harding and the Senate. But of course we can undertake nothing without the consent and the cordial co-operation of French public opinion. We shall ask the association of architects in each country to delegate one or two members so as to act in common agreement with the promoter of the Verdun park. We shall send each of them to send a secretary as its representative in the allied committee."

"Such is the initiative" of Mr. Bossom.

"We feel very deeply touched at American generosity turning again towards France and offering to commemorate the great victory of Verdun by such a splendid monument. We feel sure that the co-soldiers and the French people in general will be wholeheartedly with our friends on this occasion. Indeed many members of the American colony are ready to support this project and to form a Franco-American committee to help to carry it out."

THE NEXT WAR AND WHO WANTS IT

Berlin.—He who says another war is impossible is mad. He who fails to do all in his power to prevent it is a criminal.

"But does anyone today desire war?"

"Unhappily, yes!"

So begins an article by H. von Gerlach in the WELT AM MONTAG, in which the writer says there are forces that are working consciously for war in Europe today—but France is not one of them. The article says:

"In Russia there is an anti-pacifist government which approves war as a means of preparing for a revolution, not only in theory, but also in practice, as the attack against the peaceful socialist republic of Georgia proves. Trotsky boasts of a million and a half men, that is to say, the most powerful armed force in the world. They beg arms for the starving while they squander millions on the upkeep of an army; and the million and a half men are forced to serve in the prime of life instead of being used to rebuild the railroads."

"Horvath's White Hungary is saturated with the military and bellicose spirit. A few radicals and socialists apart, it is hard to find a Hungarian who does not want to restore the old kingdom of Saint Stephen's crown, and we know it can't be done without war."

"I won't prolong the list. Just a few words about ourselves. There are few nationalists in Germany so mad as to count on a war in the near future. But unhappily there are many Germans who dream of a war."

And often they dream out loud. The desire for revenge is expressed in thousands of speeches and articles. And the suspecting foreigner looks at these speeches rather than at the physical impossibilities of Germany's starting another war and rather than at the moral opposition of the German masses against any war whatsoever."

"But France! Has she not become the prime militarist of the world since the war?"

"I hear her termed so every day, and not only by Germans. The France of 1921 has the same mentality as the Germany of 1914, many foreign pacifists tell me."

"Such judgments seem to me to lack discernment."

"I was talking a few months ago with a well-informed French pacifist with a view to learning whether France would participate in an international congress on the program 'No More War.' He replied, 'I doubt it. Not that our peasants and townsmen are too militaristic, but their inclination against war goes without saying. They know they did not want war in 1914 and don't want any war in the future."

"Here, the powerful French army is regarded as a threat to Germany. One misinterprets French nervousness. The Frenchman says to himself 'We are forty millions against 62 million Germans.' He hears manifestations of German nationalism. He wants 'guarantees'."

"Nervousness is a bad adviser. France wants peace. But in arming so strongly she encourages the military spirit everywhere."

The Year of Crisis.

Berlin. — In prognostications for the coming political year in Germany, even the most knowing of men, wherever they be looked for in Berlin, are at the same time to give a sound reason for their hopes and fears, says a correspondent of THE LONDON OBSERVER. Christmas lay under the shadow of the tantalizingly unfaithful London negotiations; January opened with the promise, or under the shadow of Cannes. All prophecies with regard to the immediate upshot are regarded as nebulous, and one fact alone stands out as a tangibility.

"The years since the peace can be divided up for Germany into the Year of Revolution, which was 1919; the year of Paris in 1920—the German peace delegation only left Paris two days before the Christmas of 1919; the year of the deepest shadow and the Year of London, whose ultimate of over 1921."

"After Dr. Wirth's declaration with regard to reparations, 1922 opens, according to the best informed, as nothing more nor less than the Year of the Crisis. The fate of Central Europe is going to be settled during the coming twelve months one way or the other. England is going to settle it, and there are grounds for optimism. These are founded on the impregnability of Mr. Lloyd George's position; and because England has moved here to mean a peaceful Europe."

"In spite of this, Germany starts the New Year laboring under a disappointment which, though seldom openly expressed, can be read between the lines everywhere. Her great desire is a revision both of the Versailles Treaty and the London Ultimatum, not merely the revising of methods by which the identical sums laid down therein can be made payable without encroaching upon Britain's economic interests. The great hope held out in London of an Economic Conference, in which both Germany and Russia participate, and which must of necessity lead to a discussion of this revision, is the event most urgently desired. Could America be prevailed upon to take part, then a sigh of relief would be raised. England alone is not strong enough to reconstruct European finances; it is understood, without any false sentiment here, that the whole genius of Mr. Lloyd George is really directed towards a solution of Near Eastern problems in Turkey and Russia, and that Germany is a necessary evil to be dealt with in connection with the latter of these two interests. Will he succeed in establishing an economic, financial and possibly military control of all three countries?"

He has the power to establish both Russia and Germany as units of international politics, no longer condemned to play a merely passive part in the world's affairs. "This last most important factor in a country's self-respect is regarded to be bound up with their inner political affairs. As soon as the right men are produced, Germany will play her part in international affairs again. The fact that the names of Rathenau and Stinnes loom largely in the foreign press today is a cause, in spite of their manifold enemies, on right and left respectively, of the greatest satisfaction. The dawn of a great men was the most gloomy discussion of the press this last month. A whole symposium of professors gave their opinions upon the matter in one paper; the most sensible of them agreed that great personalities were generally late in obtaining recognition. More than almost any other country in Europe, Germany at the present moment cries out for a savior. The possibility of this coalition on a broad basis, in which enthusiasts see a hope for the domestic policy for 1922 would for a time quench the bitter recriminations of the party politicians who hitherto have been hindering the work so painfully attempted by the one or two found worthy by the ex-cemey."

"It is a natural argument that upon this domestic policy the attitude of the allies will be based. German industrial circles still believe them to be unaware of the grave economic troubles facing this country during the coming months. The high tide of productive prosperity is said to be ebbing, even though the supply of raw materials gives no ground for serious consideration till the spring. But in the spring unemployment looms ahead, and the most hopeful signs at present are efforts of the labor to provide against all that unemployment means in a country where the Bolshevik snake has certainly been most effectively scotched, though regarded as capable of giving one or two terrifying though, on the whole ineffective writhes if occasion arises. Germany is aware that the key to her immediate prosperity lies in the reconstruction of Russia, but she certainly desires the friendship to be accomplished in a non-political fashion. The immediate attitude before given to coming labor problems before their occurrence is one of the best signs of good faith that has been seen in the Republic since more under the shadow of a railway strike as the year opens."

MATT SCHMIDT & SON
TWO FLOORS OF GOOD THINGS FOR MEN

Brings 'em Together

Waterloo, Ia.—Bringing the city and the farmer together—that's the task of M. L. Bowman, director of the first farm department of a commercial body ever organized in the middle west.

And Bowman's doing it! "Recently a farm department was made a part of the Greater Waterloo Association and Bowman, formerly connected with the Iowa State College of Agriculture, was put at its head."

His first official act was to call a mass meeting of farmers and city residents of Black Hawk county to consider a good roads program.

Black Hawk county had been wallowing in the mud for years while good roads movements had repeatedly died without results. Because the farmers had opposed hard surfaced roads while the city men had opposed graveled roads.

PUTS THROUGH PROGRAM

Bowman got around that by effecting a compromise. A good roads program was put through by providing hard surfaced in the primary road system and graveled township roads.

Bowman's next act was to centralize the pure-bred livestock interests of the country. This was done at a meeting of all pure-bred stockmen, regardless of breed or kind of animal, where the Black Hawk County Livestock Improvement Committee was formed. A slogan was adopted, "Registered Sires for Every Farm."

Bowman then learned many farmers were desirous of owning better stock, but were not financially able to do so. He arranged for financing such farmers. Orders were taken for two car loads of high class dairy cattle.

BOOSTS CORN SHOW

Another activity the farm department is instituting a corn show taking in eight counties. This will be an annual affair and has been designated as a corn congress.

The farm department has interested itself in promotion of boys and girls club work.

It has manifested an interest in consolidated schools and in movements calculated to make the schools serve as community centers.

It is active in promoting farm building and grounds improvement.

It has secured and shown anti-tuberculosis films and has undertaken the job of cleaning herds of the county of the disease.

In short it is carrying out a program of real service for the farmer.

HERE IS A PLACE WHERE THE SUN ALWAYS SHINES

Gunnison, Colo.—Giving free meals to boarders every day the sun failed to shine would be a losing proposition in most parts of the United States. But Joe Howland of Gunnison, who adopted this practice several years ago hasn't lost money by it. Howland, naturally, has had to keep his weather eye on the sun's activities as far as Gunnison is concerned. Here's the nearly perpetual sunshine record for Gunnison for the last ten years as compiled by Howland:

The sun shone every day in 1912. Every day except Dec. 4 in 1913. Every day except Dec. 18 in 1914. Every day in 1915, 1916 and 1917. Every day except Feb. 27 in 1918. Every day except Nov. 30 in 1919. Every day in 1920. Every day except Dec. 18 and 26 in 1921.

In ten years the town has never had two days of actual cloudy weather in one year except the last. Just half of the ten years had no cloudy days.

LEFT FOR GREEN BAY IN STORM; NOT HEARD FROM

William Ronning left Wednesday night for Green Bay and has not been heard from since. He is employed in the telephone office in that city and arrived in Appleton Tuesday with his mother and spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Saecker. Wednesday morning he was called to Oshkosh and in the evening left for Green Bay on an interurban car which was delayed on the other side of Kaukauna. He started out to make the remainder of the distance on foot.

Adventures of the Twins

The Sorcerer's Spell
Down in the secret passage a little procession was creeping stealthily back to Pim Pim's domain. First came Nancy, then Nick, then Pim the Brownie, and Mike Mole. After them, at the end of the procession, came the chimney-sweep and the toymaker. They were going to help Pim Pim dig up the ruby-red and the blazing blue and sapphire-shine and golden-gitter and silver-shine for the Christmastree ornaments out of his magic mines in Brownieland. And then the Twins, the sweep and the toymaker were going to wish themselves to the North Pole to Santa Claus' house and help all they could with preparations for Christmas. Everybody was very happy. "Ha, ha!" laughed Kip and he gave a hop, skip and jump. "Won't Crookabone be angry when he finds that we have got back the key and the Magic Shoes?" "Shush, be careful!" said the mole.

LETTERS TO LOVERS

Influence Of Dress

By Winona Wilcox

HE next question put by FLOSSY D. is this: "Does a man prefer the girl who is 'distractedly dressed'?" "I have seen girls who were not neat, never well groomed according to some standards, who were exceedingly popular with the boys, while the carefully dressed girls did not get much attention. How can you explain this?"

FLOSSY D. is not yet old enough to have discovered that certain rich women dress conspicuously and their husbands wish them to do so, as an advertisement of the man's financial success.

On this theory, one accounts for many a young man's preference for a girl who dresses to attract attention, even if grooming and general cleanliness have been omitted.

In the older oriental nations, dress is a mark of caste; it indicates an individual's social status; and English speaking nations say that a woman "dresses like a lady," but of course tastes differ as to how a lady dresses.

To some it means wearing the right thing in the right place, a sleeveless dress in the ballroom—and not in an office. Lately a most astonishingly brief sleeve was seen in the business world. It was merely a cap or full if the wearer had been asked how she Philadelphia—This is an advance introduction to a future great pianist—or maybe she'll be in the rapidly changing course of events, a famous woman orchestra conductor.

For surely little Sonia Marie Noel Stokowski will grow to fame in one line or the other.

That, at least, is what heredity and environment indicate.

Sonia's daddy is Dr. Leopold Stokowski, noted leader and conductor of the famous Philadelphia orchestra. Her mother better known as Mme. Olga Samaroff, has won fame as a pianist.

Two months old now—will the next 20 or so years of musical atmosphere have its effect? The parents hope so.

Incidentally, here is a case of extraordinary interest to parents, psychologists, psychoanalysts, educators, physicians, and every one else who is interested in the growth and development of a little human brain.

Just now Sonia isn't concerned about her future. But what is her little brain developing? What of those tiny little ears? What of the lullabies that will waft her off to sleep? What of the melodies and harmonies that will be heard in the Stokowski home?

Speculate if you like—and 20 years from now, see if you were right.

Today's word is INTRICATE. It means—involved, mixed up, difficult to solve, hard to understand. It's pronounced—"in-tri-cutt"—with accent on the first syllable—never on the second! Companion words—intricate, intricateness. It's used like this—"Raising money for the service men's bonus is an intricate problem for Congress."

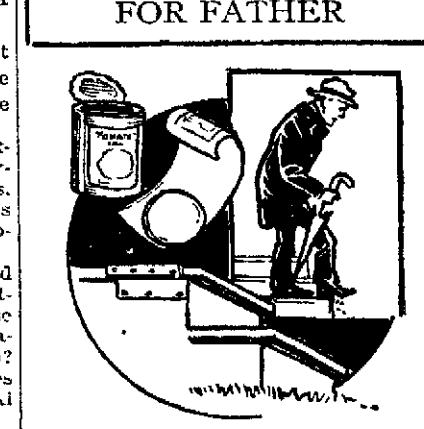

Tries To Beat Husband At His Own Game

Turret, Ark.—"If you want to be a successful and happy wife, learn to do the things your husband does. Then he'll make a pal of you."

That's the philosophy of Mrs. Frances Hixon. So she went in for trap-shooting, her husband's favorite sport.

Last year she won honors at the state shoot at Helena, Ark. Her score was 178 out of a possible 200. Mrs. Hixon's greatest ambition is to surpass her husband, who now has a slight advantage over her.

SPARE TIME JOBS FOR FATHER

Spring will bring muddy weather. Then the youngsters are likely to track mud into the house.

A way to avoid this is to take an ordinary piece of tin and nail it tight to the end of a front porch step. It is easy, then to scrap the dirt off your shoes without marring the step.

ERSKINE DALE PIONEER

by JOHN FOX Jr

He paused and, in spite of herself, her eyes flashed toward the door. Erskine saw it, drew himself erect, bowed and strode straight out. Nor did the irony of the situation so much as cross his mind—that he should be turned from his own home by the woman he loved and to whom he had given that home. Nor did he look back—else he might have seen her sink, sobbing, to the floor.

XXI

Up the James rode Erskine, hiding in the woods by day and slipping cautiously along the sunny road by night, circling about the enemy's camp, or dashing at full speed past some careless sentinel.

On the third morning he came upon a ragged sentry—an American. Ten minutes later he got his first glimpse of Lafayette, and then he was hurriedly by none other than the Duke of York, who had been sent to the front by the British.

Dut late in August came the message that put Washington's great "soul in arms." Cornwallis had had handed six thousand soldiers in Connecticut, and now Count de Grasse and a French fleet had sailed for the Chesapeake.

General Washington at once resorted to camouflage. He laid out camps ostentatiously opposite New York and in plain sight of the enemy. He made a feigned attack on their posts. Cornwallis moved south and reached the Delaware river and the British grasped the Yankee trick.

Then it was too late. The winnows of Philadelphia were filled with ladies waving handkerchiefs and crying bravos when the battered Continental army, their clothes thick with dust but hats plumed with sprigs of green, marched through amid their torn battle-flags and rumbling cannon.

Behind followed the French in "gay white uniforms" faced with green, and martial music thrashed the air.

Down the Chesapeake they went in transports and were concentrated at Williamsburg before the close of September. Cornwallis had erected works, for he knew nothing of Washington and Count de Grasse, nor Mad Anthony and General Nelson, who were south of the James to prevent escape into North Carolina.

Then came de Grasse, who drove off the British fleet and the mouth of the net was closed.

Cornwallis heard the cannon and sent Clinton to appeal for help, but the answer was Washington himself at the head of his army. And then the joyous march.

At Williamsburg the allies gathered, and with Washington's army came Colonel Dale, now a general, and young Captain Harry Dale, who had brought news from Philadelphia that was of great interest to Erskine Dale. In that town Dane Grey had been a close intimate of Andre, and that intimacy had been the cause of much speculation since.

He had told Dave of his mother and Early Morn, and Dave had told him gravely that he must go get them after the campaign was over and bring them to the fort in Kentucky. If Early Morn still refused to come, then he must bring his mother, and he reckoned grimly that no mouth would open in a word that could offend her.

In mid-September Washington came and General Dale had but one chance to visit Barbara. Erskine's plea that he was too busy to go with them aroused Harry's suspicions, and he went bluntly to the point:

"You wouldn't go to Red Oaks and Barbara did mean surprised. Is Dane Grey concerned?"

"Yes."

Harry looked searchingly at his cousin:

"I pray to God that I may soon meet him face to face."

"And I," said Erskine quietly, "pray to God that he do not—not until after I have met him first." And Harry, after a searching look at his cousin, turned away.

They marched next morning and at sunset of the second day they bivouacked within two miles of Yorktown, and the siege began.

The allied line was a crescent, with each tip resting on the water—Lafayette commanding the Americans on the right, the French on the left under Rochambeau.

De Grasse, with his fleet, was in the bay to cut off approach by water. Washington himself put the match to the first gun, and the mutual cannonade of three or four days began. The scene was "sublime and stupendous."

Bombshells were seen "crossing each other's path in the air, and were visible in the form of a black ball by day, but in the night they appeared like a fiery meteor, with a blazing tail most beautifully brilliant."

It was nearly the middle of October that the two redoubts projecting beyond the British lines and enfilading the American intrenchments were taken by storm.

One redoubt was left to Lafayette and his Americans, the other to Baron de Viomenil, who claimed that his grenadiers were the men for the matter in hand. Lafayette stoutly argued the superiority of his Americans, who, led by Hamilton, earned their redoubt first with the bayonet, and sent the Frenchman an offer of help. The answer was:

"I will be mine in five minutes." And he was. Washington watching the attack anxiously.

"The work he done and well done." And then the surrender.

The day was the 19th of October. The victors were drawn up in two lines a mile long on the right and left of a road that ran through the autumn fields south of Yorktown. Washington stood at the head of his army on the right, Rochambeau at the head of the French on the left. Behind on both sides was a great crowd of people to watch the ceremony. Slowly out of Yorktown marched the British colors, cased drums beating a significant English air:

"The world turned topsy-turvey."

Lord Cornwallis was sick. General O'Hara bore my word's sword. As he approached, Washington saluted and pointed to General Lincoln, who had been treated with indignity at Charleston. O'Hara handed the sword to Lincoln. Lincoln at once handed it back and the surrender was over.

Between the lines the British marched on and stacked arms in a nearby field. Some of them threw their muskets on the ground, and a British colonel bit the hilt of his sword from rage.

As Tarleton's legion went by, three pairs of eyes watched eagerly for one face; but neither Harry nor Captain Dave Yandell saw Dane Grey—nor did Erskine Dale.

XXII

To Harry and Dave, Dane Grey's absence was merely a mystery—to Erskine it brought foreboding and sickening fear.

He started for Red Oaks and with every mile suspicion and fear grew. The distance to Williamsburg was soon covered, and skirting the town,

"MAKE NO NOISE—AND DON'T MOVE."

he went swiftly for Red Oaks.

"Stop!" he cried suddenly, as a negro came thundering blindly on. Firefly swerved aside, and Ephraim shot by, pulling in with both hands and shouting:

"Marse Erskine! Thank Gawd you're come." When he wheeled he came back at a gallop—nor did he stop.

"Come on, Marse Erskine!" he cried. "Come on, suh!"

With a few leaps Firefly was abreast, and neck and neck they ran, while the darky's words confirmed the instinct that had brought Erskine.

"Yassuh, Miss Barbary gwine run away wid dat mean white man. Yassuh dis very night."

"Is he alone?"

"No, suh, he got an officer an' four sojers wid him."

"Does he know that Cornwallis has surrendered?"

"Oh, yassuh, he tol' Miss Barbary dat. Dat's why he says he got to git away right now an' she got to go wid him right now."

"Dis afternoon," the negro went on, "he got his American uniform. He gwine to tell folks on de way dat dem udders is his prisoners an' he takin' dem to Richmond. Den dey gwine to seprate an' he an' Miss Barbary gwine to git married somewher on de way an' dey goin' on an' sail fer England."

"You just wait in dat thicket next to de corner o' de big yarden," said Ephraim. "Dey won't know I been gone. I'll come to de ticket and tell you de whole lay o' de land."

Erskine nodded.

More quickly than he expected, he saw Ephraim's flash slipping through the shadows toward him.

"Dey's jus' through supper," he reported. "Miss Barbary up in her room. De sojers down dar by de wharf playin' cards an' drinkin'. Dat udder man been drinkin' hard."

"Ephraim," said Erskine quickly, "tell Mr. Grey that one of his men wants to see him right away at the sun dial. When he starts you run around the hedge and be on hand in the bushes."

"Yassuh."

Soon Erskine saw Grey's tall figure emerge from the half-door. Grey came swiftly down the great path. As Grey neared the dial Erskine moved toward him, keeping in a dark shadow, but Grey saw him:

"Well, what is it?" Erskine stepped out into the moonlight with his cocked pistol at Grey's breast.

"Fuss," he said quietly, "noise—and don't move." Grey was startled but he caught his control instantly and without fear.

"You are my prisoner, Mr. Grey," said Erskine. "I could lead you to your proper place at the end of a rope, but I have in mind another for you. I tried once to stab you—I know no better. You once tried to murder me in a duel and you did know better. Twice you have said that you would fight me with anything, any time, any place." Grey bowed slightly. "I shall ask you to make those words good and I shall accordingly choose the weapons." Grey bowed again.

"Ephraim!" said Erskine, "slip into the hall and bring me the two rapiers on the wall."

GREEN BAY NOT SERIOUSLY HURT BY SLEET STORM

Two Kaukauna-Men Hike 24 Miles From Green Bay to Kaukauna

Kaukauna — The city received meager news from the direction of Green Bay for the first time since the storm about 5 o'clock Friday evening when William Boree and George Buerth arrived home after hiking from Green Bay. The first information they imparted was to the effect that the fight in which Kaukauna fans have been interested, was called off. Local followers of the boxing ring had been impatiently waiting for the results of Jack Zwick's eight round go with Drywiski of Little Sunico.

The two men left Green Bay Friday morning about 10 o'clock, stopping for a little more than an hour for lunch and a rest. The trip of 24 miles was covered in about seven hours of walking. The two were part of a group of local business representatives who attended the second annual industrial exposition. The group included Miss Alpha Herbach, Miss Alma Fisher, Edward Haas, William Boree, Norbert Dietzler, Carl Bartsch, Albert Borklund and George Buerth.

Green Bay was jammed with people held there because of the tie-up, the hikers reported. Every hotel was crowded and passenger coaches were utilizing all sleeping cars. Members of the Kaukauna party were forced to sleep in the depot for two nights. Outside of a little sleet and snow, Green Bay escaped most of the damage which visited other cities.

CITY IS SLOWLY RECOVERING FROM STORM DAMAGE

Trees and Telephone Wires Broken Down by Heavy Weight of Sleet

Kaukauna — The Electric city is gradually digging herself out of the ruin caused by the storm of Wednesday and Thursday. Damage here was particularly severe to trees and telephone wires. All communication with other cities was cut off for nearly two days. Wisconsin-ave. probably showed more damage to telephone wires than any other street. Every wire to the south was down about half a block from the exchange office, completely cutting off communication in that direction. Many of the local telephones are out of order.

Electric power lines did not suffer so heavily. Service was kept up continually except for a few circuits which supply private homes. Street lights were out for a short time Wednesday evening.

Music Memory Contest NO. 22

ANTONIN DVORAK
Bohemian Composer of the Late Nineteenth Century

Antonin Dvorak (1841-1904) was the greatest Bohemian composer, and one of the greatest nationalists of the Modern School. Of the people, Dvorak was steeped in the traditions of Bohemian folk music, and he constantly employed the national idiom in all his compositions.

Dvorak spent some years in America, and when he returned to Europe, gave to the world his fifth symphony, which is called "From the New World." It is based on negro melodies.

Dvorak wrote in all forms, his operas being unknown outside of Bohemia. His greatest orchestral works are his five symphonies; "Overtures," "Husitska," "Nature," "Othello," and "Carnival." Concertos for violin, piano and cello; Slavonic dance, and many short compositions for instruments and songs.

HUMORESQUE

No modern composition is better known than Dvorak's "Humoresque." Originally written for piano, it was changed to a violin solo, and became universally popular. The term, "Humoresque," is given to any short piece of a fanciful or whimsical character, and does not mean that the composition is necessarily humorous. An example of poetic thought.

CLASSIC PLAYERS IN FINE PROGRAM

Coffer-Miller Players Unable to Put on Afternoon Performance

After making every effort to reach Appleton in time for their engagement, the Coffer-Miller players were not able to give their afternoon performance because they could not get their scenery and other effects into place in time. They arrived by truck shortly after noon from Fond du Lac.

The Imaginary Invalid, "Mollere's" clever satire on the medical profession of his day met with the hearty approval of the small audience composed mostly of college students at the evening performance. The company which supports Jesse Coffer and Martha Miller in their productions is an able one and their acting was of the highest order. Mr. Coffer as the imaginary invalid proved an excellent character and kept his audience greatly amused.

The Coffer-Miller company has been touring the United States reviving literary classics and putting them on for the benefit of college and university audiences. Their production was sponsored at Lawrence by the Speech Arts club, which is also working for the betterment of dramatic productions.

CHURCHES OBSERVE VOCATION SUNDAY

Vocation Sunday is to be observed with sermons and vocational guidance conferences in a number of Appleton churches Sunday, and in others on Sunday of the following week.

The object of the day is to concentrate the thought of young and old on the subject of choosing the kind of life work for which a person is fitted. Help of businessmen, instructors, professional men and others will be supplied to those who are uncertain as to the vocation they should choose.

The churches have taken an interest in vocational guidance to prevent the loss of efficiency and contentment caused by "square pegs in round holes."

Read what Mrs. Lucas Writes Concerning Her Troubles, which May be Just Like Yours

St. Louis, Mo. — "I had trouble that all women are apt to have, with pains in my back, weak, tired, nervous feelings and a weak stomach. I had been this way about a year and was unable to work or stand on my feet for any length of time. My husband's aunt told me how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done her and begged me to try it, so I did. All my pains and weakness are gone, my stomach is all right and I do my work at home and also work for Swift's Packing Company. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends and you may publish my letter as a testimonial." — Mrs. LULU LUCAS, 7124 Vandeventer St., St. Louis, Mo.

Again and again one woman tells another of the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

You who work must keep yourself strong and well. You can't work if you are suffering from such troubles. Mrs. Lucas couldn't. She tried our Vegetable Compound and her letter tells you what it did for her. Give it a fair trial now.

I recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends and you may publish my letter as a testimonial." — Mrs. LULU LUCAS, 7124 Vandeventer St., St. Louis, Mo.

Again and again one woman tells another of the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

You who work must keep yourself strong and well. You can't work if you are suffering from such troubles. Mrs. Lucas couldn't. She tried our Vegetable Compound and her letter tells you what it did for her. Give it a fair trial now.

James Equipment-Saves Barn Work

Light running James carriers make chore time almost play time, turning a disagreeable task that heretofore has been shirked by all into a job that boys enjoy.

James scrapers make quick work of cleaning up cement floors; James stanchions keep the stalls clean by lining up the cows at the rear; James sure stops save time and trouble; James feed trucks or feed carriers save much walking to and from feed room—make unnecessary the lifting of heavy baskets of feed.

James drinking cups not only increase milk yields, but save time and do away with the nuisance of tending bothersome tank heaters in blizzard weather.

And so with other James equipment—stalls; steel pens for cows, calves and bulls; ventilators; bull staffs; mangers; swinging cranes; milk can carriers; hog pens; swill carriers; sheep feeding racks; calf feeding racks; etc.

BARN PLANNING
Come in and let us explain to you about the James barn plan service—how you can have the advice and help of barn experts who devote all their time to solving problems in barn planning, ventilation, etc.

The James 336 page book tells all about the James inventions that save labor, increase milk yields, promote better cow health, prevent spread of disease, make simpler the care of calves and sick cows. Many pages, with blue prints, are devoted to barn planning and ventilation.

If you are interested in barn planning or equipping, ask us for a copy of the "Jamesway" Book.

Magnates to Meet in Oshkosh
Sunday When Plans for Year Will Be Made

Fox River Valley baseball league magnates will hold a meeting in Oshkosh Sunday afternoon when a circuit for 1922 will be arranged. Representatives from Appleton, Green Bay, Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Menasha, Kaukauna, Kimberly and New London will attend the meeting.

A meeting was held in Oshkosh, Wednesday night but the storm kept several of the magnates from attending. There was an informal discussion and the baseball situation in the Fox River Valley was thoroughly gone over. No definite action was taken but following the meeting news leaked out that it has been definitely established that the league this year will be a six-club organization composed of clubs in Appleton, Green Bay, Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Menasha and Kaukauna. Kimberly and New London will be dropped.

August Brandt will put a strong team in the field for the 1922 pennant race. Schultz will be the mainstay in the box again this year and Shott will do the bulk of the catching. Several members of the 1921 team will be back at their old positions but new players will be in the Appleton lineup in a few positions when the team takes the field for the first game of championship chase. Mr. Brandt expects to have a team as strong as the one that defeated the Milwaukee Brewers here last year.

APPLETON FIVE IN FINAL HOME GAME SATURDAY

Orange and Blue Quintet in Shape for Bitter Battle
With Oshkosh

Playing their last home game of the season and ready for a strenuous battle the Appleton high school basketball teamers will go into action against the Oshkosh high school eagles Saturday night in Alexander gymnasium. A preliminary game between two Boy Scout teams will start at 7:30 and the main event is scheduled to get underway at 8:15.

The Orange and Blue players have been practicing hard every afternoon this week and are prepared for a bitter struggle. The Oshkosh quintet is fast and strong and Coach Vincent has sent his players at full speed. The men have been showing great form in practice this week and are expected to hit their fastest and strongest stride in Saturday night's game. They are passing accurately and with snap and speed and have found their eyes for the basket.

Every man on the squad is in good physical shape. Capt. Briese who was sick last week, has recovered and will be in the lineup against Oshkosh. Zussman, regular forward, has been out for only one session of practice this week and Coach Vincent will start Kanouse at his position. The Orange and Blue will lineup as follows:

Briese and Kanouse, forwards; Laughlin, center; Ashman and Havens guards.

CHECK-WRITER CAN'T BE HELD IF HE HAD FUNDS

Madison.—A check on which payment is refused because of lack of funds does not furnish grounds for prosecution if the check-writer had funds enough for payment, in the bank at a time immediately after the check was given, and at a time when the check might have been paid if presented promptly. J. E. Messerschmidt, assistant attorney general declared in an opinion Friday.

Intention to defraud must be proven before valid prosecutions may be brought in the cases of protested checks. Messerschmidt said in his opinion which was given to R. T. Jackson, Mineral Point, district attorney for Iowa.

WILDE IS AFTER TITLE STRUGGLE WITH JOHN BUFF

World's Flyweight Champion
Wants Crack at Bantamweight Crown

BY JACK McLAULIFFE
Retired Undeclared Lightweight Champion

London.—Jimmy Wilde, England's only pugilistic consolation, is not yet ready to retire.

The little world's flyweight champion told me the other day that reports of his plans to get away from the ring were not true. He would like to retire as the undefeated champion, but he figures that his ring days will not be over for several years.

Wilde really wanted to meet Johnny Buff for the bantamweight champion and he was seriously disappointed when the little American suddenly tired of European atmosphere and grabbed a boat for home.

Joe Beckett, the champion knock-out champion of the world, still has a following over here. It does not make a bit with British fans to refer to him as the "Count of Tea." Of course, the real fight fans do not regard him as a ranking world's heavyweight, but he is still the champion of England.

Beckett has been dug up to meet George Cook, who was the last victim of Carpenter's right. The two have been matched to meet on March 27 in the Holland Park Rink. A. P. Bettinson is promoting the match. He is also dickering for a match later between Boy McCormick and Jack Bloomfield for the Lonsdale lightweight belt. Although Kid Lewis stopped McCormick sometime ago, it seems that official weights weren't made and McCormick still holds the title. A tentative date has been set for early April.

Hans Breitenstrater, heavyweight champion of Germany, is feeling out London promoters for a bout with one of the leading English battlers. If any of the promoters feel that the fans would stand for a German fighter at this particular time, he may be matched with the winner of the Beckett-Cook thing.

Breitenstrater was interned during the war on the Isle of Man and it was during his imprisonment that he took up boxing. After his release he went to Berlin and in his first public appearance knocked out Harold Rolph, who was considered as pretty good by the Germans. Later he did not fare so well, however, as he was knocked out by Tom Cowler and Harry Drake.

Ernie Rice, holder of the Lonsdale lightweight belt, probably will return to the ring in a short time. He has not had a fight since he was forced to retire with a badly cut eye, received when he was fighting Sailor Friedman some time ago in the United States. Danny Morgan and Seaman Hall have challenged Rice and it is probable that Hall will be the choice of the National Sporting Club.

LIGHT-SIX SEDAN
$1750

f. o. b. South Bend

See This New Low-Priced Sedan!

Two more cylinders make a world of difference.

You notice it when the LIGHT-SIX slows down to a snail's gait in traffic. You notice it when the open highway ahead invites the throttle. You notice it in the greater responsiveness, the greater flexibility, the greater s-m-o-o-t-h-n-e-s-s and in the absence of vibration.

There are new driving pleasures waiting for you in the Studebaker LIGHT-SIX Sedan.

Not only is its motor more powerful, more flexible and freer from vibration than any other light six-cylinder motor ever produced, but the perfect distribution of the car weight over all four wheels gives it unusual riding and driving qualities.

If you have been accustomed to driving a "four," the responsiveness of the LIGHT-SIX will be a revelation. If you are now driving another six-cylinder car, the lack of vibration and perfect balance of this LIGHT-SIX will create new standards of riding comfort.

But, equally important, is the new low price of $1750—an intrinsic value without parallel in the industry!

The September calendar for Outagamie county circuit court was cleaned up this week with the hearing of the case of William VandenHeuvel against Herman Schultz for the collection of $5,000 for injuries alleged to have been received when struck by the latter's automobile near Seymour nearly two years ago.

The accident occurred three miles east of Seymour on the Seymour-Onondaga road May 2, 1920. VandenHeuvel was walking along the highway when he was hit by the defendant's automobile, which, according to the complaint, was traveling 40 miles an hour. The plaintiff declared he suffered permanent injuries and $5,000 would be required to compensate him.

Any alien may file a petition for full citizenship at this time if he holds first papers two years old and has resided five years in the United States. Forty-one petitions have already been filed.
